Investment Strategy

Seeking to achieve its investment objective, the Small Cap Value Fund ("Fund") will invest at least 80% of its net assets, at cost, in equity securities of companies with market capitalizations in the range of the Russell 2000 Value® Index ("small-cap companies"). The Fund's investments in equity securities may include common and preferred stocks, convertible securities, and shares of other investment companies and exchange-traded funds ("ETFs") that invest in equity securities of small-cap companies. In addition to equity securities, the Fund may also invest up to 15% of its net assets in U.S. Government or U.S. agency obligations. The Fund may have up to 25% of its net assets invested directly or indirectly in foreign securities, including investments in emerging markets.

The Fund's portfolio typically consists of 40 to 60 equity securities that are weighted according to the Adviser's projected return expectations. The Adviser's disciplined investment process seeks to yield a portfolio that is amply diversified across a wide spectrum of economic classifications and sectors.

Investment Philosophy

Snow Capital Management employs a contrarian, fundamental, relative value investment philosophy. We believe that attractive returns can be earned by constructing diversified portfolios of well-managed, financially strong companies where the stock price is depressed because the company has experienced short-to intermediate-term difficulties. The philosophy is consistent with modern behavioral finance research. It attempts to take advantage of investors' overreaction to negative surprises and as a result should avoid overpaying for the crowd's current favorites.

The philosophy relies on independent, fundamental research to determine the nature of the problem, assess the likelihood of a solution, gain confidence that the company has the financial resources to survive the difficulty, and to estimate the likely value of the company's stock after the problem is resolved. Only stocks with the highest potential returns make it into the portfolio. When skillfully executed, this contrarian philosophy should result in a portfolio of stocks with the potential for an asymmetrical payoff. The downside should be minimized because the stock price is already depressed, the company appears to be in sound financial condition, Wall Street's opinion is already negative, and investor expectations are low. The upside potential may be enhanced by the expected earnings turn-around, and more powerfully, the potential expansion of the price-to-earnings ratio that a positive change in investor sentiment can generate after an earnings recovery.

The Russell 2000 Value TR Index measures the performance of small-cap value segment of the U.S. equity universe. One cannot invest directly in an index.

Mutual fund investing involves risk; principal loss is possible. Investments in small cap companies involve additional risks such as limited liquidity and greater volatility. Investments in foreign securities involve greater volatility and political, economic and currency risks and differences in accounting methods. These risk are greater for emerging markets. The fund may invest in other investment companies, and the cost of investing in the Fund will generally be higher than the cost of investing directly in the shares of the mutual funds in which it invests. By investing in the Fund, you will indirectly bear your share of any fees and expenses charged by the underlying funds, in addition to indirectly bearing the principal risks of the funds. The fund also invests in ETFs. They are subject to additional risks that do not apply to conventional mutual funds, including the risks that the market price of an ETF's shares may trade at a discount to its net asset value ("NAV"), an active secondary trading market may not develop or be maintained, or trading may be halted by the exchange in which they trade, which may impact the Fund's ability to sell its shares. Investments in convertible securities may fall in value if interest rates rise.
